

Dyslexia Center News

December 1st and 2nd mark the last days of this semester, and Final exams started on Wednesday, December 3rd and will finish on Tuesday, December 9, 2008. Commencement ceremonies will be held on Saturday, December 13, 2008 at 10:00 am and 2:00 pm. Congratulations to one Center student who will be with this graduating class! The Center will be closed for the Christmas holidays, along with NSU, starting on December 22, 2008 through January 4, 2009.

Campus Tours

Students that are interested in our Center may schedule a tour at any time of the year. Many high schools allow a certain amount of excused absences for college visits. Check with your guidance counselor for information. If you are visiting the Nicholls campus, a tour of our Center can be included; let Admissions know, and they will call the Center to let us know when you will be coming.

Dyslexia Center Conference

Plans for our conference that is scheduled for Saturday, January 31, 2009 are underway. A separate email with the registration form will be sent out shortly. Registration will begin at 7:45 am and the conference will end around 4:00pm, with continental breakfast and lunch provided. There will be many informative and useful workshops to choose from that the Center hopes will appeal to all of those attending. The conference will be held in Peltier Auditorium on the Nicholls State University campus. Please spread the word, and we hope to see you there.

For You Information

Holidays can often be a stressful time for anyone with a learning disability, such as Attention Deficit Disorder. Routines are disrupted and households seem chaotic. ADDtitude magazine is an excellent resource for tips on dealing with the holidays and many more subjects related to learning disabilities, specifically, Attention Deficit Disorder.
