

Inside transitions to daily e-mail

The Inside Nicholls newsletter will no longer be distributed as a biweekly PDF file. Rather, the publication will shift to a daily, e-mail format.

“Our goal is to keep faculty and staff as up-to-date as possible on campus developments, events, announcements and achievements,” Renee Piper, director of university relations, said. “Nicholls employees will be better served if they receive campus news in a more timely fashion, and this new format will accomplish that.”

Beginning Monday, Oct. 12, faculty and staff who wish to submit information for inclusion in the new, daily e-mail should send the information to Graham Harvey at graham.harvey@nicholls.edu no later than 10 a.m. on the day of the desired announcement.

“In addition to maximizing the timeliness of the news we distribute, we hope to reduce e-mail clutter in campus mailboxes,” Piper said.

“We urge faculty and staff who would otherwise distribute various types of campus-wide e-mail announcements to instead send the announcements to Graham Harvey, who will include the information in the daily Inside e-mail. I want to thank everyone for their cooperation as we make this transition.”

FROM THE DESK OF THE PRESIDENT

Dear faculty and staff,

For some weeks now, I have wanted to write the university family to address the issues and rumors surrounding the work of the Louisiana Postsecondary Education

Review Commission (sometimes referred to as the Tucker Commission). Unfortunately, addressing this matter is very much like “picking up a porcupine.” One tries for the soft underbelly but gets mostly the sharp spines (sorry for the Montana metaphor).

The Postsecondary Education Review Commission was created by Act 309 of the 2009 Louisiana Legislature to study the governance, facilities and funding operations at the state’s two and four-year public institutions and to provide a written

See Hulbert, page 5

Nicholls on track to becoming ‘All-Steinway’ school

The Department of Music hosted the second annual Monster Piano Concert in Talbot Hall Auditorium. Eighteen pianists, including faculty, students, alumni and guests, performed on six Steinway pianos, including the university’s own concert grand and three others, plus two more provided by Hall Piano Company, Louisiana’s exclusive Steinway dealer. All proceeds will go toward purchasing additional Steinway pianos for the music program.

Administrators confirmed the university’s commitment to becoming an “All-Steinway” institution on Tuesday, Sept. 22, during the second annual Monster Piano Concert.

“As any musician will tell you, the Steinway is the world’s finest piano, and I believe that all of our music and music education majors deserve to learn and practice on the finest piano available,” Dr. Stephen T. Hulbert, university president, said.

There are only about 110 “All-Steinway” schools in the nation, Hulbert added – and Nicholls aspires to be the first public institution in Louisiana to bear the distinction. The necessary funds will be generated primarily via private sources, Hulbert said.

The Department of Music already has four Steinways, totaling approximately $250,000 in value. Each piano requires up to one year to handcraft.

THE NATIONAL WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP SUMMIT

U.S. Senators attend inaugural event

The three-day National Women's Leadership Summit kicked off Thursday, Sept. 24, at the InterContinental Hotel in New Orleans. Sponsored by the Louisiana Center for Women and Government, headquartered at Nicholls, the summit featured roundtable discussions focusing on environmental and energy-related issues. Pictured from left are Faith Peperone, volunteer coordinator for the National Women's Leadership Summit; U.S. Sen. Lisa Murkowski; Dr. Laura Badeaux, director of the Louisiana Center for Women and Government; Norma Jane Sabiston, consultant and manager for the National Women's Leadership Summit; U.S. Sen. Mary Landrieu; Toni Gouaux, state chair of the Louisiana Center for Women and Government Leadership Council; Kathleen Mix, New Orleans regional chair for the Louisiana Center for Women and Government Leadership Council; and Elizabeth Dent, vice state chair of the Louisiana Center for Women and Government Leadership Council.

Nicholls receives $5,100 from ConocoPhillips

ConocoPhillips donated $5,100 to Nicholls on Thursday, Oct. 1, to help cover costs for the National Women's Leadership Summit in New Orleans. Pictured from left are Larry Howell, associate provost; Dr. Carroll Falcon, provost and vice president for academic affairs; Dr. Laura Badeaux, director of the Louisiana Center for Women and Government; Ryan Vaccarella, health, safety and environmental specialist for ConocoPhillips; and Dr. Stephen T. Hulbert, university president. Established in 1991, the Louisiana Center for Women and Government encourages and promotes the leadership of women by providing resources and non-partisan support through educational workshops, training seminars and outreach programs. With more than 600 members from eight regions across Louisiana, the center promotes women in government and public service, acknowledges achievements of women and teaches all citizens about the importance of public service and responsible citizenship.

Teachers from Nicholls dominate area workforce

A substantial portion of K-12 teachers working in the Bayou Region received their degrees from Nicholls, according to estimates compiled by the College of Education.

The percentage estimates of K-12 teachers who earned a bachelor's or master's degree from Nicholls appear by parish in the following table – along with totals:

Parish	Percentage Estimate	Estimated Totals
Lafourche	94 %	1,072 / 1,138
Terrebonne	88 %	1,320 / 1,500
St. Mary	60 %	420 / 700
St. Charles	54.3 %	185 / 341
Assumption	51.6 %	194 / 376
St. James	39.4 %	124 / 315

“The faculty of the College of Education is quite proud to have educated so many of the Bayou Region's teachers,” Dr. Susan Roark, acting dean of the College of Education, said. “The economic well-being of our region and our state depends heavily on the education of our youth. Certainly these new figures show the importance of Nicholls to people in our area.”

The estimates were garnered via data from regional school districts and TeachLouisiana.net.

New Orleans Film Festival to profile sculpture garden

The Sculpture Garden and Folk Art Studio in Chauvin, owned and maintained by Nicholls, will be featured in a new independent film by Zack Godshall. The film will be showcased at 2:45 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 11, at the Prytania Theater as part of the New Orleans Film Festival.

Titled “God's Architects,” the film is a documentary that tells the stories of five artist-architects and their enigmatic creations – detailing how and why they constructed their self-made environments. Among the profiled artists is Kenny Hill, who created the Chauvin sculpture garden during the 1990s and disappeared in 2000.

For additional information about the upcoming film, go to www.godsarchitects.com/index.html. To learn more about the sculpture garden, call (985) 594-2546 or go to www.nicholls.edu/folkartcenter/default.htm.

Interested in upcoming campus events?

Check out the following links:

Nicholls Home Page Calendar
www.nicholls.edu/calendar/month.php

Academic Calendar
www.nicholls.edu/academic\_calendar/

Athletics Calendar
geauxcolonels.cstv.com/

BEHIND THE NAME

Campus streets named for nearby plantations

(Editor's Note: At the request of Inside, Dr. Alfred Delahaye, professor emeritus of journalism, has written a series of articles on how campus facilities and features got their names. The latest installment appears below.)

In the summer of 1962, Nicholls administrators accepted a proposal by the SGA Student Council to name campus streets for well-known area sugar plantations and homes. In late October, the city of Thibodaux provided signs bearing such names as Acadia, Madewood, Glenwood and Ellendale. The circle in front of Elkins Hall was named Rienzi, but no identifying sign was installed. Other streets were yet to be developed and named.

Acadia Drive, the north-south roadway leading from Highway 1, bears the name of Acadia Plantation. Years ago the campus was part of that plantation, known as "Acadie" before 1834. Union troops during the Civil War encamped on Acadia Plantation on or near what is today the Nicholls campus. The house was consolidated into one building from two creole cottages and a shotgun house.

It was the residence of the Richard Plater family for many years, but no one lives there today. About 3,000 Acadia acres were sold for $9.5 million in 2003 to Jake Giardina and Ronald Adams of Thibodaux.

Owners of all or part of the plantation have included the Bowie brothers (one being Jim of knife and Alamo fame), a nephew of Francis Scott Key, a nephew of President Andrew Jackson's wife and Congressman Edward J. Gay (the great-grandfather of Richard Plater).

Madewood Drive, the north-south street drivers use to get to Highway 1, is named for the 21-room mansion built in 1846 by Col. Thomas Pugh. It faces Highway 308 south of Napoleonville. It was constructed of wood from trees on the property, and thus the name Madewood.

Six Ionic columns dominate the central residence, which has subordinated wings. Some walls are 18 inches thick. The home was bought in 1964 by Naomi and Harold Marshall of New Orleans. Today it is owned by their son and daughter-in-law, Keith and Millie Marshall of New Orleans.

In 1983 the Department of the Interior designated Madewood a national historic landmark. The home is open to the public for tours and as a bed-and-breakfast. Nicholls sometimes uses the home for special events, and Hollywood movies have been made there.

The name Rienzi not only identifies the circle drive in front of Elkins Hall but also the famous old home, which the Levert Company gave to Nicholls on Jan. 30, 2004. Because a state appropriation of $750,000 is not enough to bring the structure on Highway 308 up to safety and building codes, it is not used and is closed to the public.

Rienzi is the only Greek Revival plantation home in the Lafourche area with a row of columns on all four sides. It is one of the few homes in the Deep South with a cruciform (or cross) hall plan. At one time, the plantation was owned by Henry Schuyler Thibodaux, the city's namesake. Rienzi was placed on the National Register of Historic Places on May 31, 1980. The site was annexed by the city of Thibodaux in spring 2005.

According to local historian William Littlejohn Martin, who died at age 70 in 1965, the home was built between 1815 and 1835. That Juan Ygnacio de Egana built the house for Spanish Queen Maria Louisa as a possible retreat is only a legend, Martin wrote. In 1796 when Rienzi was supposedly built, Martin concluded, "the land was a wilderness."

Glenwood Drive behind Elkins Hall recalls the once-famous home on Highway 1 a mile north of Napoleonville. Built in 1840, it was destroyed on Sunday, Oct. 9, 1955, by a 25-minute fire that started in the kitchen. Edward Munson, the owner, discovered the fire when it was small, but he and his guests helplessly watched as flames consumed the 20-room, two-story cypress structure and some valuable antiques.

The original house was built by Munson's great-grandfather, but it was remodeled and enlarged in 1885. Many notables were reported to have been entertained in the bayou show-place. Once one of the best-known of Louisiana's old plantation homes, it was featured some years before the fire in Reader's Digest.

Ellendale Drive, the street between Polk Hall and Bollinger Memorial Student Union, is named for the rambling country home on Bayou Black first envisioned by Andrew McCollam and his wife, Ellen, thus the name Ellendale. However, Helen Wurzlów, a Terrebonne historian, listed the wife's name as Eleanor. Could her nickname have been Ellen?

The McCollams, originally New Yorkers, died a few years before the house was completed in 1874 by their heirs. A gabled facade laced with fine millwork, or "ginger-bread," is what Wurzlów considered the distinguishing architectural feature of the house. It has no hallways, having been uniquely designed for airflow.

For many years it was the residence of Mrs. Esther McCollam, whose husband was the grandson of the man who named the plantation. Le Petit Theatre de Terrebonne named its acting award "Esther" in honor of McCollam's service as a board member. Family members today share and use the home, but it has no permanent resident.

With a Little Help from Friends ...

Join the Race for the Cure!

By Kim Webre, Registered Nurse for University Health Services

On your marks, get set, go! Please join us for the 11th annual Bayou Region Race for the Cure on Oct. 17 at Peltier Park in Thibodaux. Registration will begin at 7:30 a.m., followed by the one-mile fun run/walk at 8:30 a.m. and the 5K run/walk at 9 a.m.

Pre-registration is $20, and race-day registration is $25.

Registration forms are available in the Office of University Health Services in Ayo Hall, or you can register online at www.komenbayouregion.org. Join the Nicholls team and receive an additional race T-shirt from the Nicholls Screening, Treatment and Educational Programs for Breast Health (STEPs) team.

The promise of the Susan G.

Komen Race for the Cure is to save lives and end breast cancer forever by empowering people, ensuring quality care for all and energizing science to find a cure. The Bayou Region Race for the Cure is one of more than 125 affiliates, servicing the parishes of Assumption, Lafourche, St. James, St. Mary and Terrebonne. Thanks to events like the Race for the Cure, nearly $1 billion has been raised to fulfill the initiative's promise.

Up to 75 percent of the proceeds generated by the local affiliate stays in the Bayou Region.

Please feel free to contact me at kim.webre@nicholls.edu or Ext. 2603 for additional information.

Nicholls celebrates a Tillou Homecoming

Dr. David Boudreaux, vice president for institutional advancement, salutes Col. Tillou during the Class of 1959 Reunion in the Captain's Room of the Bollinger Memorial Student Union.

Retired faculty member Bonnie Bourg (center), talks with graduates of the Class of 1959 during the Homecoming alumni reception.

University President Stephen T. Hulbert crowns 2009 Homecoming Queen Whitney Dupuy, a government junior from Bayou L'ourse and the daughter of Paul and Patricia Dupuy.

Kristie Mott, administrative assistant for alumni affairs, chauffeurs homecoming court members Zack Young and Lauren Daigle in the 2009 Homecoming Parade.

Nicholls attracts well-prepared high school students

Since becoming a selective admissions university, Nicholls has attracted an increasing number of high school students who are better prepared for college. Listed in order, the top feeder high schools in fall 2009 are Thibodaux High School, E.D. White Catholic High School, South Lafourche High School, Central Lafourche High School, Terrebonne High School and Vanderbilt Catholic High School.

According to fall 2009 enrollment statistics at Nicholls, 6 percent of the incoming freshman class have already completed a semester's worth of college-level credit via advanced placement testing, ACT testing or the Early Start Program (formerly the Dual Enrollment Program), which allows high school students to enroll simultaneously in university-level courses. In fall 2004, only 2.6 percent of incoming freshman had completed a semester's worth of credit.

Moreover, three incoming freshmen students in fall 2009 have actually begun their university studies as sophomores – thanks to their participation in advanced placement programs. In fall 2004 there were none.

Additional statistics indicating the preparation level of incoming freshmen include ACT scores and high school GPAs. Sixty-nine percent of incoming freshmen scored 19 or better on the ACT math test, compared with 47.5 percent in fall 2004 – and 92.3 percent scored 18 or better on the ACT English test, compared with 70.4 percent in fall 2004. In terms of high school GPAs, 88.9 percent of incoming freshman scored 2.5 or higher – compared with 76.8 percent in fall 2004.

Furthermore, the majority of incoming freshmen – 64.5 percent – were prepared to begin college-level mathematics and English without remedial level coursework. In fall 2004, only 53.2 percent met those standards.

Kevin George, principal of Thibodaux High School and a Nicholls graduate, said the relationship between Nicholls and Thibodaux

High yields positive results with college-bound students.

“We [recently] had an assembly for juniors and seniors, and a representative from Nicholls came to discuss the dual-enrollment program,” George said. “We certainly want our students getting the most out of their junior and senior years.”

David Boudreaux, president of

E.D. White Catholic High School, said around 90 percent of his school's graduates are college-bound – and a substantial number of them choose Nicholls. Boudreaux said their success is largely based on E.D. White's successful, strategic plan, launched five years ago, to boost ACT scores. He said several E.D. White students take dual-enrollment courses at Nicholls as well.

Percentage increase in Nicholls enrollment second highest in UL System

With a 3.68-percent enrollment increase since fall 2008, Nicholls has placed second out of eight University of Louisiana System institutions in enrollment percentage boosts. Only McNeese State University has reported a higher figure – 4.23 percent.

“As we've said before on several occasions, Nicholls has become the institution of choice for higher education in the Bayou Region and, increasingly, beyond,” Dr. Stephen T. Hulbert, university president, said. “The new comparative enrollment figures are very encouraging, especially given the financial difficulties facing our state. Indeed, we at Nicholls will continue to fulfill our primary mission of producing a better-educated citizenry.”

For complete data on enrollment figures and trends at Nicholls, go to www.nicholls.edu/ir.

Hulbert, continued from page 1

report of findings and recommendations. This group is staffed by the Louisiana Board of Regents.

The organizational meeting of this group occurred on Aug. 10, with the latest meetings occurring on Sept. 28 and 29. On the 28th, Ben Nevers, who chairs the Senate Education Committee, was elected chair of the commission. You can find a listing of the total commission membership as well as the minutes of the organizational meeting on Aug. 10 in PDF format at www.nicholls.edu/president/.

Community members wishing to follow the deliberations of the commission may do so by going to <http://laperc.ioniclogic.com/>. At that link, you will find a broad array of documents pertaining to the work of the commission. You will also find a link to live coverage of the commission when it is in session.

While the commission is just now getting about its work, the rumor mill has been active for the past several months. Locally, the chatter, rumors and gossip have focused on a comment by a regional legislator saying something to the effect that Nicholls was in the bull's eye.

While I know no more than anyone else about the political intent behind the commission or the direction of its deliberations, I can tell you that such comments, while intended to rally the community to support the university, are simply not accurate. However, each of us knows that such comments can easily affect student applications and enrollment.

So how do we respond to the chatter within the broader community and the occasional inflammatory print media headline? Clearly, the response has to be cautious and deliberate, as we do not want to intensify the debate or sound particularly defensive.

The approach taken over the past weeks has been to encourage university friends at all levels to counter such comments with observations about the many program successes at Nicholls. This effort has also involved media releases addressing positive messages such as that recently about 80-plus percent of regional nurses coming from Nicholls.

The goal has been to inform rather than to be defensive. Each of us knows the strength of the university in terms of its faculty, academic programs, accreditations and the facilities and service enhancements that make Nicholls so strong. We also know that the average ACT of first-time freshmen is now at 21.5, reflecting a significantly stronger student body which in turn has led to higher retention rates.

As I indicated earlier, no one knows what lies ahead as a result of the ongoing deliberations and further recommendations of the commission. Even more importantly, no one knows the political agenda that will play out in balancing higher education priorities with the greatly diminished available financial resources available to the State of Louisiana. During the interim, I want to encourage all members of the university community as well as its many friends to keep a positive outlook and to speak out addressing just how successful Nicholls has been in its first 61 years of service to south central Louisiana.

As needed in the future, we will aggressively defend this fine young university – but at the same time, we will continue to move Nicholls forward as a maturing comprehensive university. Nicholls has responded to the evolving needs of its service region. We will continue to do so in the future.

Sincerely,
Stephen T. Hulbert
University President

Adults invited to enroll in non-credit courses

The Office of Continuing Education will offer a variety of non-credit courses for adults in the coming months. Details regarding selected courses follow:

FABULOUS FALLS

Students will learn to create their own unique styles in floral designs. Creations will be based on a seasonal theme and might include door wreaths, center pieces or sways. Participants are asked to bring wire cutters, scissors and a glue gun.

Dates: Oct. 13 and 15

Time: 6 – 7:30 p.m. (Tuesday and Thursday)

Place: 405 Gouaux Hall

Instructor: Cashanta R. Paige

Fee: $130 (An additional fee of $200 for flowers and course materials will be paid to the instructor at the first class meeting.)

FRESH FLORAL CREATIONS

Students will create floral designs using fresh flowers. Some creations will include arrangements of roses, tropicals and other seasonal flowers. Participants are asked to bring floral snips.

Dates: Oct. 27 and 29; Nov. 3 and 5

Time: 6 – 7:30 p.m. (Tuesdays and Thursdays)

Place: 405 Gouaux Hall

Instructor: Cashanta R. Paige

Fee: $130 (An additional fee of $200 for flowers and course materials will be paid to the instructor at the first class meeting.)

YULETIDE FLORAL DESIGNS

Students will create floral designs based on a seasonal theme and might include a door wreath, center pieces or sways. Participants are asked to bring wire cutters, scissors, and a glue gun.

Dates: Dec. 1, 3, 8 and 10

Time: 6 – 7:30 p.m. (Tuesdays and Thursdays)

Place: 405 Gouaux Hall

Instructor: Cashanta R. Paige

Fee: $130 (An additional fee of $200 for flowers and course materials will be paid to the instructor at the first class meeting.)

LET'S DANCE

Beginners and seasoned veterans can practice the rhythms of the fox trot, swing, jitterbug, waltz, rumba, tango and and cha-cha. Partners and singles are welcome.

Dates: Oct. 19, 26, Nov. 2, 9 and 16

Time: 7- 8 p.m. (Mondays)

Place: Shaver Dance Studio (2nd Floor)

Instructor: Angela Hammerli

Fee: $39

BEGINNING CAKE DECORATING

Participants will learn a variety of cake-decorating techniques including borders, garlands, embellishments, simple flowers and roses. Students will learn how to properly bake, fill, crumb-coat and ice a cake for a professional look. Participants should bring an apron and camera to class.

Dates: Nov. 7

Time: 8 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.

Place: Century Room by Guidry Stadium

Instructor: Claire Workman

Fee: $119

To register for these classes, call Ext. 4444. For information on the extensive selection of continuing education courses not featured here, go to www.nicholls.edu/cnc/.

Louisiana Book Festival to feature faculty

Two Nicholls faculty members are scheduled to appear at the Louisiana Book Festival, slated for Saturday, Oct. 17, at the Louisiana State Capitol, State Library of Louisiana and Louisiana State Museum in Baton Rouge. Admission is free.

Holmes

Dr. Daryl Holmes, associate professor of English and editor of the Louisiana English Journal, will serve as a panelist in a discussion titled “Country Roads Regional Writing,” scheduled for 1 to 2:15 p.m. in the Capitol View Room of the State Library.

Holmes is a compiler and publisher of two books – “Recipe for Success: A History and Cookbook of the Fletcher Lecture Series” and “Starting from Scratch: A Cookbook of the Fletcher Lecture Series.” She has a chapbook of poetry forthcoming as well, from Chicory Bloom Press.

In addition, Holmes is one of five authors whose work was chosen to appear in Country Roads magazine’s 2009 Regional Writings issue – already distributed throughout the area. She won in the humor category for her submission “A Lunker Legend,” a tale about a drive-in funeral home in a small town in Maine.

Bienvenu

Marcelle Bienvenu, instructor of culinary arts, will participate in two discussions and two book signings. The first discussion, slated for 11 a.m. to noon and titled “Don’t Call It a Gumbo: What Food Tells Us about Louisiana, Beyond the Clichés,” will be conducted in Senate Committee Room F, followed by a 45-minute book signing beginning at 12:15 p.m. Bienvenu will then move to House Committee Room 3 for a discussion titled “Appreciating the Natural Treasures of the Wetlands” – scheduled for 2 to 2:45 p.m. A second book signing will follow at 3 p.m.

Bienvenu is the author of “Cooking up a Storm: New Orleans Recipes for Recovery” and “Cajun Cooking for Beginners”; coauthor of “Wings of Paradise: Birds of the Louisiana Wetlands” and several cookbooks with Chef Emeril Lagasse; a weekly food columnist for The Times-Picayune; and a contributor to Louisiana Life and Louisiana Cookin’.

For additional information regarding the Louisiana Book Festival, go to www.louisianabookfestival.org/index.html.

CAUGHT YOU WORKING! Employee Photo of the Week

Jessica Harvey, assistant director of alumni affairs, addresses the “Golden Grad” attendees of the Class of 1959 Reunion in the Captain’s Room of the Bollinger Memorial Student Union. Dr. Stephen T. Hulbert, university president (right), listens intently.

Au revoir!

- Annette Breaux, coordinator of the teacher induction program for the College of Education, retired Sept. 30.

Inside Nicholls Items

- Rachel Hebert, program coordinator for the Louisiana Center for Dyslexia and Related Learning Disorders, was recently awarded the Robert G. and Eleanor T. Hall Memorial Fund Scholarship to attend the International Dyslexia Association's conference in Orlando, Fla., in November.

Nicholls Trivia Teaser

"A Reheated Ink Twill" is an anagram for what faculty or staff member?

Submit answers by e-mail to graham.harvey@nicholls.edu or by telephone to Ext. 7059 by Monday, Oct. 12. Responders with the correct answer will be entered in a drawing for a gift certificate to be used at Sodexo's retail food vendors located on campus.

Congratulations to Julie Jeansonne, benefits coordinator, who won the Sept. 23 Trivia Teaser. "All Magma Herein" is an anagram for Angela Hammerli.

October 9 Sudoku Puzzle

		8	4				2	6
	4			2				9
7				3				4
1		7	9				4
	3				4	5		7
2				7				8
9				1			7
6	7				5	9

Puzzle by websudoku.com

September 23 Sudoku Puzzle Solution

3	1	9	5	4	2	7	8	6
6	5	7	1	3	8	4	2	9
4	8	2	6	7	9	3	5	1
1	9	3	2	5	7	6	4	8
8	2	6	4	9	3	1	7	5
5	7	4	8	6	1	2	9	3
7	3	8	9	1	4	5	6	2
2	6	1	7	8	5	9	3	4
9	4	5	3	2	6	8	1	7

Puzzle by websudoku.com

Answer to this issue's puzzle will be published in the next issue.

Have some university-related news that you would like to share with other faculty and staff members?

Send it to "Inside Nicholls" at graham.harvey@nicholls.edu.

"Inside Nicholls State University" is published by the Office of University Relations to inform university employees of administrative news, campus happenings, achievements and people associated with Nicholls State University. News items and calendar events should be sent via e-mail to graham.harvey@nicholls.edu, through campus mail to the Office of University Relations in 125 Elkins Hall or faxed to Ext. 4891. Contact the staff by telephone at Ext. 4143.

Renee Piper, Director of University Relations

Tony Cook, Assistant Director

Graham Harvey, Editor

Dr. Al Delahaye, Dr. Stephen Hulbert, Brandie Toups and Kim Webre, Contributing Writers

Jerad David, Layout

Misty McElroy, Photojournalist

Nicholls State University is a member of the University of Louisiana System.