Geomatics is a science that deals with the collection and analysis of data related to the Earth's surface. Many of the techniques used in geomatics are similarly applied in astronomy. The difference, of course, is that geomatics is Earth-centric while astronomy is a science that collects and analyzing data from bodies external to the Earth. Additionally, the courses taught by Professor Young require only administrative duties from the instructor. The course assessments do not require an expertise in geomatics.
